

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system for enabling entry and/or display of data in a database. The system comprises a processor for 5 controlling the display of a form having a number of data fields corresponding to data items stored or to be stored on a database. A store for storing, for at least one data field, information enabling attributes relating to that 10 data field to be displayed upon user command while the form continues to be displayed is provided.

09867680 "053101"
TOTAL